Purpose of the project:

- To contribute to environmental conservation and protection. Trees play a crucial role in mitigating climate change by absorbing carbon dioxide and releasing oxygen.
- Provide an opportunity to educate about the importance of trees and the environment by actively participating in planting and caring for trees.
- This program involves the participation of staff from both UTAR and HBUK, fostering a sense of community and shared responsibility for the environment as well as help build relationships between the organizations.
- To enhance the aesthetic value of hospital environment and surrounding areas as the plants provide green spaces and improve the overall appearance of the hospital environment.
